Honorable Dr. Dariga,

I hope this letter finds you in good health.

I have learnt that you have been nominated to the post of Deputy Prime Minister.
I know how important the task is and how heavy responsibilities it brings with it.

I remember our last meeting which dealt with your vision for the future of Kazakhstan and how enthusiastic you were to go with it further on. I would like to repeat what I have then told you.
You can count on our good will and friendship to help and support as much as we can.

My wife, Nili, and I, wish you a lot of success in your new difficult endeavor.
It is now the new Jewish year, and the custom is to wish one another the best of health, happiness and flourish. We both wish you all that you wish for yourself.
May it all come true. It will be for the benefit of the Kazakh people - too.

sincerely yours,

Ehud Barak
